Виктор Николаевич Трамбический (1895, Брест-Литовская крепость—1970, Ленинград) — советский композитор, педагог, исследователь народной песни. Специальное образование получил в музыкальном училище в Вильнюсе и Петроградской консерватории. Крупный деятель музыкальной культуры Урала, он много лет заведовал кафедрой теории и композиции Свердловской консерватории, был секретарем правления Союза композиторов РСФСР.

В 1960 году В. Н. Трамбический вернулся в Ленинград, где и провел последние годы жизни. Он внес большой вклад в дело развития советского оперного искусства, создав восемь опер, среди которых «Орлёна», «Гроза», «Кружевница Настя». Написал ряд крупных симфонических произведений: две симфонии, поэмы «Весна» и «Капитан Гастелло», Симфонические этюды, сюиту «В пути», а также романсы на стихи М. Дудина, А. Ахматовой, С. Есенина, вокальный цикл «Северные сказы» на народные слова. Трамбический — автор теоретического исследования «Гармония народной песни» и многих других работ.

Симфония памяти Н. Островского создавалась в годы Великой Отечественной войны, написана под впечатлением событий жизни этого писателя. Первая часть повествует о годах юности героя, вторая — картина военного похода, третья — трагические переживания человека, сраженного тяжелым недугом, четвертая — борьба с болезнью, возвращение к труду и творчеству. «Жизнь за мое упорство вернула мне счастье безмерное, изумительное, прекрасное» — эти слова писателя могут служить эпиграфом к финалу произведения.

Первые исполнения симфонии состоялись в 1945/1946 году в г. Свердловске и в Москве под управлением дирижера М. Павермана.

Victor Nicolaevich Trambicky (1895, Brest Lithuanian Fortress — 1970, Leningrad) was a soviet composer, teacher, investigator of the folk song. He studied at a musical school in Vilnius and at the Petrograd Conservatory. He was a prominent cultural worker of the Urals and for many years headed the Theoretical and Composition Section at the Sverdlovsk Conservatory and was a secretary of Board of the Composers' Union of the R.S.F.S.R.

In 1960 V. N. Trambicky came back to Leningrad where he spent his last years. He contributed much to the development of the Soviet Opera Art, wrote eight operas among which there were «Orlena», «The Storm», «Lace-maker Nastia». He wrote several large symphonic compositions: two symphonies, poems «Spring» and «Captain Gastello», Symphonic Etudes, the suite «On the road», as well as romances on the subject of M. Dudin's, A. Achmatova's and S. Esenin's verses, a vocal cycle «The Northern Tales» on the folk's words. Trambicky is the author of the theoretical research «The Harmony of the Folk Song» and many other works.

The Symphony dedicated to N. Ostrovsky was written during World War II under the impression of the events from the writer's life. The first movement narrates about the young years of the hero, the second movement depicts the military operations, the third movement is the tragical feelings of the man smitten with a severe illness, the fourth movement — the struggle and overcoming the illness and returning to labour and creative work. «The life due to my persistence has returned me boundless happiness, wonderful, beautiful» — these words of the writer may serve as an epigraph to the finale of the composition.

The first performances of the Symphony took place between 1945 and 1946 in Sverdlovsk and Moscow under the baton of M. Paverman.

The first system has a '1. II' marking above the first staff. The second system has 'a2' markings above the first and second staves. The third system has 'a2' markings above the first and second staves, and 'unis.' markings above the third and fourth staves. The fourth system has 'unis.' markings above the third and fourth staves.
